

Let us give thanks.

Now let a north and south railroad be built.

A cool wave and cloudy weather have arrived.

The standard time is generally adopted in this city.

HUBBARD NEVER won a Presidential election yet.

AND now let us bind up the wounds of the afflicted.

FRED. HUBBARD, if you will come over we will smile with you.

We'll all join hands and circle around in the usual way.

The salt river jacket is laying in supplies for its passengers.

THE Democratic party awoke with a headache this morning.

SOME of the Democrats are pretty good fellows, in their way.

THE CITIZEN necessarily devotes much of its space to the election returns.

The campaign being now over, the world will go right on with its knitting.

We are strongly of the impression that Grover Cleveland will never get there.

This election dispatches are chiefly noted for their contradictory information.

COL. C. C. BEAN will go into office with a majority that does honor to Arizona.

RETURNERS in Cochise county indicate the election of the Republican nominee.

THE Star is now putting its crowing roosters over patent medicine advertisements.

A SLIGHT reduction in the whisky tax would have saved many Democratic dollars last evening.

SO soon as the result is announced, gentlemen, you will prepare your ballots for the city election.

CERTAIN recent candidates on the Democratic ticket think they got it without going to Sonora.

LET no man sulk because he was defeated. Remember that if it wasn't you it would be the other man.

IT was a wise thing for the Star to crow this morning. No other opportunity will be afforded it.

THE Star seems to hurray louder over the sweeping national Republican victory than the CITIZEN does.

IT was puzzling to the Democrats that the Star should crow over dispatches so very unfavorable to the Democratic cause.

THE Republicans will not concede the election of a single Democrat in Pima county until the last vote is counted.

LET's all be American citizens once more. There is no nation on earth that we would swap birth rights with; no, not one.

THE tedious and slow counting of such a vast number of votes, suggests that the city of Tucson be provided with more polling places.

THE general vote of Arizona, shows that precinct to be strongly Republican. Col. C. C. Bean received twenty out of twenty-seven votes.

THE Star dropped the story of its crowing chanters this morning, and as the returns come in the number will decrease at even a more rapid rate.

IT is worthy of record that the recent election witnessed no such disgraceful and corrupt scenes such as have sometimes marked elections in this country.

OUR advisers from Graham county indicate that it will give Blaine a good round majority. If this proves true, it will certainly secure the election of Col. Bean.

THE Star acknowledges that Pima county is largely Republican, in its statement that the Democratic candidate for sheriff was elected by the Republicans.

IT is highly probable that Pima county will experience an unusual activity in mining matters this winter. The prospects upon all sides look favorable for the production of bullion from newly opened mines, all of which are tributary to Tucson. The good time is certainly near at hand.

THE most preposterous act of the Star during the campaign just closed was the publication of those so-called dispatches in the Star Tuesday announcing the fusion of the Butler and Cleveland factions, and the speech delivered by Roscoe Conkling opposing the Union.

THE political revolution in Arizona is peculiarly gratifying, and it marks the beginning of a prosperous era for her. New hopes are inspired that our neglected Territory will move steadily forward and swing into line as a Republican State, full of happiness and prosperity.

THE result shows that the newly able and clever elements of our population are men of ideas, progress and enterprise.

AN item appears in another column giving encouraging news relative to the construction of the Narrow Gauge railroad, with the information that the work of this construction will begin in a very short time, the grading contracts having already been given. It is hoped that these anticipations will be realized and that the road will be speedily constructed, as it is one of vital importance to the country to the north, and it will be a source of wealth to this city.

THE returns from the outside precincts come in very slowly, and the final result in the case of several of the nominees hinges directly upon this outside vote. The count in the city was completed at half-past eight o'clock this (Thursday) morning, and it gave a general majority for the Republican ticket, with the exceptions of Probate Judge and Surveyor. Sheriff Paul has 116 majority in the city, and it is claimed by Shaw's friends that this will be more than offset by the outside returns, and at this hour it looks as though Shaw will have a small majority—something less than twenty. It has been a close fight between the candidates for Sheriff, and their friends have worked hard to secure votes for each. No matter who is elected, the contest will go record as the most closely contested of any known in Arizona.

THE AGONY IS OVER.

Yes, the die is cast. THE CITIZEN has done what little it could for the cause it represented, and while it went far as was consistent in advocacy of the men and measures they represent, we trust that we have said or done nothing to injure any good man who may have differed with us politically or otherwise. We do not belong to that class who believe the world will come to an end if things do not go exactly as we desire they should go.

H. P. Head is elected to congress or Fred G. Hughes is elected to the council, we will accept the situation gracefully, and will lay no straw in their way so long as they pursue a consistent course and work for the interest of the people.

If Eugene O. Shaw is the man that the people of Pima county have elected Sheriff, we assure him that he will find no truer or stronger support than will be extended to him by the CITIZEN in the discharge of his official duty, so long as he has right and justice on his side. While these gentlemen were not the choice of the CITIZEN, and while we have done all we could to defeat them, yet if they are elected and we take the broad grounds that they will not act as the elect of the party, but the representatives of all the people. Such being the case our opposition to them ceases at the polls, and we gracefully submit to the will of the people whatever it may be. The same may be said as to other gentlemen who are on the Democratic ticket who may receive a majority of the votes cast to-day. We hold no malice against any member of the opposing party, and we trust none is held against us. If the people differ from us they are as likely to be right as we are. So be it for us.

It is a plain fact that, although Pima county is decidedly a Republican county, its people choose to vote with that freedom of restraint and influence that characterizes the intelligent and independent thinking man. In a community where the faults and virtues of every man is well known, they look chiefly to the peculiar qualification and fitness of the man for the office to which he aspires rather than to party lines or anything that smacks of machine politics. It is true that mistakes may occur, but they are the result chiefly of lack of acquaintance with the candidate.

The election of good and proper men to office is the basis of good government, and it should be the aim of all parties to seek personal ambitions and place only the best men in nomination. If this cannot be done within party lines, in local elections, it should be done by popular movement. A person who votes for a bad man simply because he has been nominated by his party, commits a wrong that is inexcusable. In state or national affairs, where great principles are to be maintained, and the act of suffrage loses its personal characteristics. But in our county or city politics of what significance is our foreign policy or tariff question? All other things being equal, we would choose to honor one of our partisan friends, and the party that does not look primarily to the welfare of the people, but to the welfare of the party, cannot expect to retain its prestige in this progressive age.

The smoke of the silent battle is clearing away, and we can here and there get a glimpse of the result of the fight, without the ability to view the whole field. The indications are, at this hour, that Blaine will carry New York and Indiana by small majorities, and that he will be elected President. The meager returns are being closely scanned and careful estimates made upon the basis of past elections, and yet the figures present no facts worthy of great consideration. In Arizona there is reason to believe that we have elected a Republican Delegate to Congress, and our candidate for Superintendent of Public Instruction, by a good majority. In Pima county the whole Republican ticket, with a single exception, is elected. Sheriff Paul will get a small majority, but it will require the counting of all the ballots to make the result certain. It is certainly a victory which the Republicans of this county have gained great reason to feel proud of, and it shows clearly that Pima county is a reliable Republican county under all circumstances. Only a few precincts have given Democratic majorities. The city of Tucson shows a good Republican majority and has done itself proud in its record of Tuesday.

THE more news received from New York the more one becomes bewildered as to the result. That it will require an official count to determine it admits of scarcely a doubt, and the chances are about equally divided between the two great parties. The plurality on either side is so small that neither will concede the state until the actual figures are known beyond conjecture. Should New York be lost to the Republicans there is a possibility that the few Butler electors undoubtedly elected will be able to name the next President of the United States or throw the choice into the House of Representatives. It would present a strange feature in American politics if such a proceeding should place Butler in the White House. It is certain that in an emergency of this kind, rather than to give the Presidency to Cleveland, Butler would throw his strength for Blaine in case he cannot force the mountain of Republican electors to come to his Mahomet. The matter as it now stands is full of problems which will be solved only by the final count or the developments of time.

THE CITIZEN issued the following poster yesterday: A vote for E. O. Shaw is a vote for L. C. Hughes. If Shaw is elected L. C. Hughes will run as a Democrat. But the business did not work. The fabrication was jeered at even by the Republicans and several pronounced the publication of the poster as the kind of a fight the CITIZEN was making for Paul. Paul's friends ought to get that sheet. But it didn't hurt Hughes and made lots of votes for Shaw.

If the Star does not know, it ought to know, that the above poster was ordered and paid for by a Democrat who is a member of the Democratic Territorial central committee. It probably had the effect he desired to create.

Be charitable to the vanquished, neighbor.

THE TRUMP PAPER LIE.

Paul lost one good Republican vote at the primary when he stepped up to a man, and tapping him on the shoulder, he hoped he'd meet him on the desert again when he was without a wiper. He mistook his man in a double sense.

The above slur at Paul is from the Thumb paper edition of Shaw's Sunshinism and sorrow.

The facts in the case are as follows: Last summer Sheriff Paul went out to Silver Lake, where he met a couple of pro-secting, one of whom came to him and said: "Paul, we are going out to the Calabazas on a prospecting tour; we have our grub, tools and everything we need, but no money with which to buy water. Can't you give us a little money to buy water?"

Sheriff Paul ran his hand down into his pocket and brought out $3, which he gave to the prospecting party with the remark that he guessed that would do.

Paul then took a swim in the lake, and during the time he saw the prospecting party drinking in the saloon. When he came out the other prospecting party came to Paul and asked him for money to buy water with. Paul told him that he had just given his partner $3 for that purpose. Prospector No. 2 then said that they had taken some drinks and there was not enough of the $3 left to buy water. Paul then gave him $2.50 and started home.

On the day of the Republican primary election in this place, one of these same prospectors was on the streets doing everything he could against Paul. Paul went to him and asked him what "he was kicking about," and made the remark, "that he might want some more money to buy water with." The prospecting party then said: "The time that he gave him and his partner $5.50 at Silver Lake for that purpose."

It is all there is to this story. It is a fair sample of the lies that have been circulated about Paul during the past month, and most of them are by just such scoundrels as the one above referred to.

NEW YORK.

As the result of the Presidential election are supposed to be contingent upon the vote of New York, the returns from that state have been carefully watched and compared. Hon. Thomas Fitch this afternoon compiled the following table from the returns, which gives great good plenty.

Blaine's majority in the interior: On 63,983 votes, 4,587; 267,626; 23,248; 325,168; 348,328; 31,076; 634,094; 44,774; 696,001; 49,507.

On the 200,000 additional votes from the interior, at the same rate, there will be a Blaine majority of about ten thousand.

A still later dispatch cuts down Cleveland's majority in New York and Kings county somewhat, and increases the Blaine majority in the interior, leaving but 441 precincts to cover a necessary 6,000 majority for Blaine, to give the Republicans from 10,000 to 15,000. New York is safe for Blaine and the country is safe.

DEMOCRATIC TALK.

The Albany Argus of this morning says: "No Presidential commission will be let put James G. Blaine in the White House or keep Cleveland out of it. The men who attempt it will be killed, and the consequences of killing them will be taken care of afterwards."

ALTHOUGH the friends of Paul have given up his election, yet an official count of the votes will be necessary to determine if the majority Shaw is elected. If the final count should reject votes claimed to have been illegally polled the result may still be changed. At all events, it was a decidedly close fight.

A GENTLEMAN who has been afflicted with a Democratic newspaper for some time called to-day and subscribed for the CITIZEN with the remark that he "wanted to hear the truth occasionally."

OUR imp says he feels it in the air. Victory for the Democrats—Courier. That was a devil of a prediction.

THE bonanza mines are showing up nobly and the great boom is near at hand.

Weekly Mining Report.

QUINTANA, Nov. 1, 1884.

Aug. Waterman, Esq., Secretary Peerless Mining Company, San Francisco, California:

Dear Sir: All work is going on as usual.

Peerless tunnel No. 1 is in 346 feet. The vein has been reached, and we are driving south along the west side of the same. The general appearance is very satisfactory, showing a well defined vein and some good ore. This drift will be continued until we reach a point directly under the vein, when an upraise will be started to connect with the same.

Crocker north drift is in 77 feet. We have cut into one which shows a fine vein. When this ore was first reached we turned our drift and ran along the east side of it for quite a distance. We have now come back and started the drift straight ahead to reach the extent of the ore.

Peerless mine, on top of the hill, is down 150 feet, and is in a soft, favorable looking material, and good progress is being made.

The greater portion of the machinery for the Jarvis compressor has arrived, and grading is nearly completed to erect the same.

A brick kiln is being put up, which will furnish all the brick we will require for compressor and mill. We have also contracted for 1,000 cords of wood to be delivered at the works.

Yours very truly, W. H. SMITH, Supt. Peerless.

In the midst of the excitement of the election the encouraging reports from the Quintana may not have received that due consideration they deserve. In his conservative report the superintendent says that the body of ore in the Crocker north drift assays from $50 to $100. Considering the large body of ore encountered, the statement is very significant, and it means that the great Crocker excitement is to be renewed in Pima county, and upon a grander scale than the former.

They fired into the cab and tried to kill the engineer, but the conductor who came out on the platform to see what was wrong. Nearly every window in the train was shattered by bullets, but the engine was fairly rattled with bullet holes. As soon as the firing commenced the passengers got down on the floor of the cars, and the engine escaped injury.

The engine, however, left behind it a trail of destruction. The train was pulled to a halt by the robbers. As soon as the facts were learned however, the train was set in motion, and the robbers were taken there to-day by the police.
